Introduction: "You can be your own boss, make more money, and have the time to spend with your family that you need." Over the years, I've heard all sorts of advice from people who've successfully made the transition from employee to entrepreneur. What I'm about to share with you in this guide will help you get a better understanding of what it takes to get started and maintain a successful home-based business. 1) The Myth of the Home-Based Business: The Myth of the Home-Based Business: If you're looking to start a home-based business, the myth of the home-based business can be a huge stumbling block. The reality of starting a home-based business is that the vast majority of small businesses fail. So why is this so? I'll tell you why. And it's a good thing because you don't want to succeed at something that's never going to succeed. The majority of small businesses fail because they're often trapped in cycles of behavior that create resistance to change. These small businesses go through a whole bunch of small changes and grow into something better. They might fail and try something new again. They might fail, but are willing to try something new next time. But ultimately, they often become frustrated with their results and are scared of the fact that they're not going to achieve the level of success they thought they would. 82157476af
